'Object over pool homes'

* An artist's impression of the scheme for 48 homes on the pool site

CAMPAIGNERS are launching a last gasp effort to save Temple Cowley swimming pool as demolition machinery moves on to the site

Housing association Catalyst Housing has submitted a planning application to Oxford City Council to redevelop the pool site in Temple Road for 48 homes.

By George Welch

Campaign group Save Temple Cowley Pools (Save TCP) is urging people to object to the plan by the end of today – the deadline for public comments.

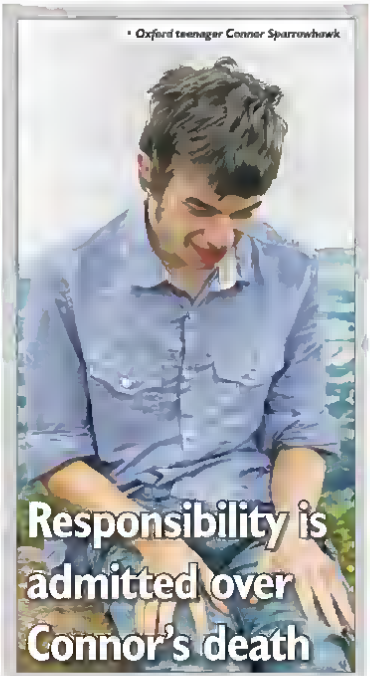

Save TCP argues that the project is out of character with the surrounding area, the site only has space for 25 homes, it would block access to St Christopher's School and the new buildings would overshadow neighbouring Temple Cowley Library.

The protesters also say the council has failed to provide a satisfactory alternative to Temple Cowley Pools, and there is not enough parking for the new homes – 35 flats and 13 homes.

The pool in Temple Road was shut in December 2014 after the council rejected Save TCP's proposals in favour of commercial development.

The premises have been empty since then, despite the

Bun-throw fun draws a crowd of thousands

By Dominic Thomas

A CROWD of 4,500 turned out on Saturday to celebrate the Queen's 90th Birthday in Abingdon with the town's tradition of bun throwing.

The event organised by Abingdon Town Council, saw dignitaries including town mayor Alice Badcock and Oxford West and Abingdon MP Nicola Blackwood throw 4,500 buns from the roof of County Hall.

Bun throwing is an Abingdon tradition dating back to 1761 when it celebrated the Coronation of King George III and has since been held on 36 royal occasions.

Among those in the crowd was Nicola Roberts, 35, of Steventon, who said: "We're looking forward to celebrating the Queen's birthday and hoping to catch a bun!

"My family are all here and my parents have come from Blackpool this weekend.

"I'm a bit of a traditionalist, it's a nice tradition to have in the town to celebrate and bring people together."

Mayor Miss Badcock, who had the honour of throwing the first bun, said: "We always look forward to such a traditional Abingdon event.

"When I became elected mayor the first thing I said was 'Does this mean I can throw buns now?'"

"It's such a special honour to take part in because you can only do it if you're elected. It's a lovely tradition and one unique to Abingdon.

"It's extra special to take part as mayor. I went along when I was younger when my dad was mayor and now I get to repeat that."

Joining the dignitaries on the roof was twice bun-throwing world champion Selina Wallis, 33, of Culham, who won last week's championships at Abingdon Vale Cricket Club.

She said: "I enjoyed it so much here to see so many people coming out, and it's always the same, even when it rained last time.

"It's great to get together to celebrate like this. I think it brings people together, when sometimes there's not so much to celebrate.

"I'm very excited to be here. It's actually my husband's birthday today and we had a party which I've ditched to come here."

Also taking part in the quirky tradition was Reserve Army Sgt Julie Mann, of 7th Battalion, The Rifles, who hold the Freedom of Abingdon.

She added: "I've lived in Abingdon for 20 years and I've been before to catch the buns so it's ever so exciting.

"It's an honour. We have been involved in many events celebrating the Queen's birthday in the last week and to get the chance to take part in the bun throwing today was fantastic."

Meanwhile the town's MP Miss Blackwood paid tribute to the Queen on her birthday, saying: "Bun throwing is a great Abingdon tradition, and we only have it on the great occasions such as the Queen's birthday.

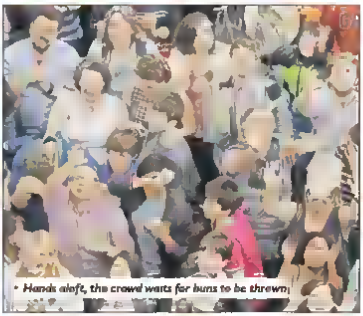

"She has served the United Kingdom for 63 years as Queen and given the most outstanding service to the people."

Miss Blackwood added: "It's great for the people of Abingdon to have the opportunity to celebrate her life and service in this way."

Verdict on tragic crash

A VERDICT of accidental death was returned by an Oxford inquest jury yesterday on two men who died in a plane crash at Enstone airfield last summer.

Keith Poulton, 59 of Rugby, and Connor Morris also known as Edward, 62, of Witney, perished when their fixed wing Pegasus Quik microlight aircraft smashed through a wire fence and collided with a lorry trailer on landing both were confirmed dead at the scene.

Accountant Mr Poulton was Dr Morris' passenger on the flight when it left the airfield at approximately 7.10pm on Friday, July 3. A post mortem revealed both men died from multiple injuries that were unsurvivable.

By George Welch

The crash happened after Dr Morris had completed a circuit before attempting to land.

But he landed quite far down the runway, slowing down before accelerating as if to take off again. Onlookers were shocked as the aircraft then smashed through the fencing and crashed under the trailer.

The incident happened close to their wives and family who rushed to help.

Dr Morris' wife, Lesley Morris said: "It was a dreadful accident caused by a combination of factors. It is a great tragedy for both families. We are all devastated by the loss of these two adventurous, lively active, humorous family loving men."

Emergency services arrived within nine minutes of being called at 7.16pm, but the two men were confirmed dead shortly afterwards.

According to the Air Accidents Investigation Branch (AAIB) which released its report into the incident in January, the aircraft was 39kg – or eight per cent – overweight.

The report said: "Even if the aircraft had not been over loaded, there was insufficient distance remaining to take off again from the point at which power was reapplied.

"The extra weight is considered to have been a contributory factor to the accident," it said.

Although Dr Morris was an experienced pilot with more than 200 hours flying experience, he had not flown a microlight with an instructor since gaining his licence in 2006 and his microlight rating had since lapsed. To maintain their ratings, pilots are required to gain 12 hours of experience flying a microlight including eight hours in sole control – otherwise, they have to redo all their tests.

Oxfordshire coroner Darren Salter will write to the Enstone airfield owners in addition to writing a regulatory report to the Civil Aviation Authority about making changes to run ways to reduce hazards such as the presence of lorry trailers.

Phillip Sleight, a professional engineer who led the AAIB investigation, confirmed there were no technological defects with the microlight.

OXON Police are appealing for information about a man who has gone missing from Wales.

He is described as being between 5ft 6ins to 5ft 7ins tall, of slight build, with blonde hair. He wears glasses and speaks with a Welsh accent.

Protests claim new pool roof is 'leaking' land being purchased by Catalyst for £3.5 million last year.

In the eyes of campaigners, the council have not done enough.

Save TCP said: "The council has not provided an adequate replacement for Temple Cowley Pools 18 months after closure, and this affects over 40,000 people – a quarter of Oxford."

The council invested £9 million in a major refurbishment of the pool and leisure centre at Blackbird Leys which opened early last year.

Referring to the revamped facilities, Save TCP said, "The replacement recreation facilities are inadequate, unacceptable and less accessible for this area.

"It is preferable to retain the potential of the Temple Cowley Pools site to provide for swimming and fitness for the wellbeing of the community which it serves."

Save TCP said the new pool roof at Blackbird Leys was already leaking – a claim the council could not confirm or deny. The council refused to comment further on the old pool and the campaign's claims.

Traffic scheme given green light by council

• Proposal for the Access to Headington scheme

A £12.5 MILLION Access to Headington project that aims to ease congestion in the area has been given the green light by Oxfordshire County Council.

Plans for the scheme were unveiled last July in an attempt to improve travel to major employment, health and education sites.

And, now the required Traffic Regulation Orders (TROs) have been approved. The council hope to start construction later this year.

By George Welch

The targeted area includes the B4495 from Cherwell Drive/Marsh Lane to Horspath Driftway, the Eastern Bypass as well as Old Road.

The project includes a 'transport corridor improvement' programme consisting of a number of improvements including junction upgrades, cycling facilities, and pedestrian crossings.

David Nimmo Smith, cabinet member for transport said, "Access to Headington is a major investment in the local transport infrastructure – it is needed in order to support new jobs and housing in the area without attracting new traffic to the area.

"The focus of the scheme is on enabling sustainable transport not encouraging more cars or vehicles."

The construction work is expected to take place in stages rather than as one project, in an effort to minimise disruption.

The scheme is part of the wider Oxford Transport Strategy that encourages more walking, cycling and public transport use.

The county council are set to release more information on start dates' locations and specific construction work done shortly.

Following a meeting between councillors and members of the public it has also been agreed that the county council would continue consultation on introducing a 20mph limit in Windmill Road, in addition to looking again at the possibility of parking on part of The Slade.

Winner tells of thrill to design hospice garden

A DIDCOT gardener has won a competition to design a garden for Oxford hospice charity Helen and Douglas House.

Nicola Wakefield's idea was chosen as the winner for the feature at the hospice, off Cowley Road, which cares for terminally-ill children and young adults from birth up to 35 years old.

The contest was open to alumni of the KLC School of Design, where Nicola trained, and was organised by Greenfingers a charity dedicated to creating inspiring gardens for children's hospices.

The idea is to give the children a chance to spend time in the natural environment away from their bedside.

Nicola's Kaleidoscope design impressed the judges, who asked the entrants to submit designs for an outdoor retreat to enable children in beds and wheelchairs to spend time in the garden all year round.

The judging panel was made up of gardener Ann Marie Powell, members of the hospice staff and a recently-bereaved mother who gave insights into how the space could fit the children's needs.

Nicola said: "I am thrilled to have won the Greenfingers competition. It is an amazing opportunity and I'm hugely excited about it.

"Helen and Douglas House is a very special place to be creating a garden."

Cloudy2Clear Announce Which? Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames – has received the coveted Which Trusted Trader status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on consumer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that 'Which?' have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up, we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople, perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Oxfordshire area from their local depots and manager James Miller agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated, as both my customers and, also crucially, hardly as 'not totally important' as Which? can recognise.

Map on show

OXON Lord of the Rings fans have a chance to see a recently discovered map of Middle Earth on display in Oxford for one day only.

The map is annotated by The Hobbit and Lord of the Rings author JRR Tolkien and will be on show at the Bodleian Libraries on June 23.

The map went unseen for decades until October 2015 when Blackwell's Rare Books in Oxford offered it for sale.

It had belonged to Pauline Baynes (1922-2008) the celebrated illustrator who was the only artist approved by Tolkien to illustrate his works during his lifetime.

The map will be on display from 9.30am until 5pm in the Bodleian's Weston Library.

Dig shortlisted

OXON Oxford's Westgate dig has been shortlisted for Best Archaeological Project in this year's British Archaeological Awards.

The excavation of the grounds of Westgate shopping centre off Castle Street centred on a friary. They are being carried out by Oxford Archaeology during a £440 million development of the shopping centre with Laing O'Rourke and the Oxford Westgate Alliance.

The winner will be announced in London on 11 July.

Sticker duo draw to raise charity funds

AN Oxford couple who drew their own version of the entire World Cup sticker album are picking up their pencils again for Euro 2016.

By Dominic Thomas

Husband and wife Alex and Sian Pratchett, of Iffley Road, are planning to draw all 800 players by hand over the course of the tournament – this time for charity.

They documented their World Cup exploits with an online blog as a revolt against the price of the official Panini stickers.

Alex said: "It started off as a funny cost-saving exercise but started to take over our lives more and more.

"It was a bit like having two jobs, one of which was slightly confusing and pointless."

They said they were persuaded into doing a Euro version by their friends, but said: "We're slightly dreading doing it again, but it's all for charity this time.

"It's given us a bit of a motivation being able to help others and given us the sort of kick we needed."

Each of their hand-drawn stickers takes about 15 minutes to complete, so between them they plan to put in 200 hours of drawing over the month-long tournament.

Alex added: "We are into the football and were looking forward to watching it but we might not have that much time to.

"We're both from Newport originally so we'll be supporting Wales and following them in between doodles. We're taking Thursday off for the Wales v England match.

"We've also got some inconsiderate friends who've decided to get married and have birthdays as well this month, but hopefully they won't mind us being there scribbling away."

Despite the interest in their endeavors they aren't tempted to start selling their stickers.

"During the World Cup, we saw pictures online of people printing them out and sticking them in their albums which made us laugh," said Alex.

"There is the potential for us to make some money out of it but obviously the real Panini stickers would probably have something to say about that.

"So we're just happy that it gets people to engage with each other and – hopefully – raise some money for some special causes."

Both Alex and Sian work in the charity sector and will be raising money for their respective charities Cancer Research UK and learning disability charity MacIntyre.

You can follow their doodlings on Twitter at @CheapPanini and donate to their charity effort at: http://tinyurl.com/pf2ekjp

Drivers given warning of overnight closure for junction work

ROADWORKS started last night to resurface and maintain the Botley Interchange.

The £260 000 work on the roundabout joining the A34 and A420 will be carried out in two phases overnight between 8pm and 6am.

It will include drainage repairs, replacing road markings, and traffic signal loops carried out by Oxfordshire County Council (OCC).

Phase one started last night and will last until Saturday morning. Lane closures will be in place but the road will remain open.

As part of phase two from June 27 for two weeks, the road will be closed with a diversion in place.

OCC's cabinet member for transport David Nimmo Smith said. Areas of the carriageway at the A420 Botley interchange have started to fail. Early intervention now and investing around £260 000 will help to maintain the existing road surface so that more disruptive and costly work isn't needed in the near future.

"The work is being done at nights so that traffic is disrupted as little as possible."

Schools' art to mark occasion

PUPILS have been using their artistic talents to mark the Queen's 90th birthday

The chairman of Oxfordshire County Council Michael Waine arranged for each Bicester school to produce canvasses depicting each decade of the Queen's life in celebration of her birthday.

The canvasses will now go on display at County Hall.

Pupils from the schools were at County Hall last Thursday to watch the pop up gallery opened by the Lord Lieutenant, Tim Stevenson, the Queen's representative in Oxfordshire.

Bicester councillor Mr Waine said: "Having already seen some of the artwork, I can confirm that it is of a very high standard and I am sure councillors, council employees and members of the public will enjoy it a great deal."

From the beginning of July the artwork will be moved to Bicester's new library in time for its official opening.

Three Oxford University fellows received the highest honour of knighthoods and dame hoods on the list announced on Friday.

University Emeritus fellow Dr Larry Allan Siedentop received a knighthood for services to political science, along with President of Magdalen College, Professor David Charles Clary, for services to international science, and former principal of Lady Margaret Hall, Dr Frances Lannon, who was made a dame for her services to higher education.

Eleven Oxfordshire residents were awarded with an OBE from a range of different backgrounds from Catherine Elizabeth Johnstone, of the Samaritans, who was honoured for her services to suicide prevention, to Claire Williams, deputy principal of the Grove-based Williams Martini Racing team, for services to Formula 1.

Abingdon resident and Scout volunteer Tim Kidd, who was awarded an OBE, said: "It's a massive privilege to accept this award on behalf of all the fantastic volunteers across the UK.

"I am looking forward to making sure as many young people as possible can take part in the life-changing adventure that is Scouting."

Tim, who is deputy UK commissioner for the Scouts, added: "I've been a Scout all my life, since the age of eight and for the last 24 years I've been involved in it at a national level, and I still like to keep in touch with the Abingdon Scouts groups who are doing some very good work.

He added: "For me, motivated, positive adults are key to ensuring that we reach as many young people as possible and so it's vital that our volunteer team continues to be motivated and engaged in the movement."

Three more Oxfordshire residents were also awarded British Empire Medals for their civil services to the community including Robert Green, of Abingdon, Ted Short, of Banbury and Charles Williams, of Burford.

Trust admits its responsibility for boy's death

By Katriona Ormiston

THE charity Inquest that helped the family of Oxford teenager Connor Sparrowhawk fight for the truth about his death has warned that others without anyone to battle for them would not get justice.

It has backed Connor's family in their struggle for accountability since the 18-year-old died at an Oxford facility in the care of Southern Health NHS Foundation Trust.

Connor, who had learning disabilities and autism, drowned in a bath after an epileptic fit at Slade House in Headington on July 4, 2013. The facility has now closed.

Since Connor's death, his mum Sara Ryan and Inquest have been campaigning for those answerable for his death to be held to account.

Last Thursday, almost three years later Southern Health admitted responsibility, said they were "deeply sorry" and promised to pay £80,000 in compensation to Connor's family.

The Inquest charity said: "The truth only came about as a result of the family's fight for it."

It added: "What about those who have no one to fight for them? The ongoing failure to set up a process whereby deaths of learning disabled and mental health patients are independently investigated sends a message out that these lives do not matter."

Connor's family launched a 'Justice for LB' campaign. LB is a reference to Laughing Boy, a nickname used for the Headington teenager who attended Wheatley's John Watson School, which was raised in Parliament on May 3, alongside a report on Southern Health's failings.

The Trust's statement said: "Connor Sparrowhawk died while in our care, for which we are deeply sorry, and we would like to take this opportunity to again offer our unreserved apologies to his family for his preventable death."

It also said his death was the result of multiple systemic and individual failures by the Trust, which included lack of leadership at the Short Term Assessment and Treatment (START) unit where he was staying and a lack of training for staff about epilepsy.

An inquest into Connor's death in October also heard just before his death a decision was made that observation checks on Connor could drop from every 10 minutes to be hourly.

The family's solicitor Charlotte Haworth Hird, of Bindmans, said: "This full admission finally shows what Connor's family have known for years – that Connor and they were repeatedly failed by Southern Health.

"It comes after a three year struggle by Connor's family."

She added: "Connor's family have had to learn of the harrowing circumstances of his time at the START unit and of his death.

"In the face of that horror they have remained dignified and dedicated to ensuring that no other individual receives the treatment that Connor and they have."

Bus project gains award

A BANBURY community project that has been running for more than two decades supporting thousands of people every year has won an award.

Banbury and District Community Bus Project, which provides mobile play and after-school facilities to children, picked up the Charity and Community category in the Cherwell Business Awards.

But the award was not all it received on the night – the charity based at East Street Children's Centre, was also given the proceeds of a raffle totalling £1,100.

Cllr Lynn Pratt, Cherwell's lead member for estates and the economy, said: "The Cherwell Business Awards is an impressive showcase of those who are driving the district's vibrant and innovative economy forward.

"Our sponsorship of the Charity and Community Award is a way of celebrating enterprises that have made a sustained and outstanding contribution to Cherwell's social fabric. The Play Bus is a longstanding focal point of our children's lives, as demonstrated by the fact that many of its users have gone on to volunteer with the service as adults."

The bus project was founded in 1998 and last year supported 4,486 adults and children across the community.

The winner of Cherwell Business of the Year 2016, which was held last month in the grounds of Begbroke Science Park, was Bicester-based baking ingredients manufacturer British Bakels Ltd.

Weight-loss champion walks to put on pounds for charity

• Cameron McCulloch at 26 stone with his mum Margaret McCulloch

JUST over a year ago Cameron McCulloch weighed 26 stone, was registered disabled and often could not face getting out of bed

But the Wantage granddad is now nearing the end of an 87 mile charity hike along the Ridgeway after shedding 10 stone and turning his life around.

Mr McCulloch and his four-legged companion Archie are trekking from Buckinghamshire through Oxfordshire to Wiltshire in a fundraising quest for Eynsham-based charity HENRY (Health, Exercise and Nutrition in the Really Young)

By Katriona Ormiston

The 48 year old from Smiths Wharf was classed as morbidly obese eight years ago and listed as disabled in 2013

• Cameron McCulloch lost 10 stones after surgery

The turning point was having weight-loss surgery in March 2015 which sparked Mr McCulloch into action to shed the pounds through exercise and diet

He said. "It is like having the best drug in the world, where energy and enthusiasm just pour from you and allows you to do so many more things.

"You can t quantify the change. It s like going from being trapped to being free That s the only way to describe it."

His walk started at Ivinghoe Beacon on Sunday and finishes tomorrow at Overton Hill in Avebury The hike also coincides with mens health week this week.

Mr McCulloch, dad to 25 year-old Fraser and six year-old Taylor has already raised more than £1,400 towards his £2,500 target.

He has walked about 15 miles each day staying at home overnight and being shuttled back to where he ended the night before He has about 11 miles left to reach the finish line

The former King Alfred's Academy pupil played football, cricket and rugby in teams at school and became a fan of weightlifting and bodybuilding

But after injuring his back in 2002 Mr McCulloch started gaining weight. The former car salesman of 20 years left work in 2008 at about 22 stone after finding it too difficult to carry on.

He had bariatric surgery to reduce the size of the stomach by removing part of it.

He said. "I would look out of the window of my top floor flat and see people walking up and down the street easily And that's all I wanted to do that s what I wanted from the surgery

"I used to walk 30 yards and I would be out of breath and in agony Now I can walk for hours and hours My life has taken off.

"I wouldn't go out for three or four days at a time but the other day one of my friends called me a machine because I don t stop now"

Mr McCulloch has since taken up walking and cycling again.

The Monday following the hike, he is launching his own business called The Handy Gent, carrying out handyman work.

Next year s mission could be trekking the 83 miles of Hadrian s Wall also for HENRY

Dance moves prove hit

A VIDEO of a Thame pub manager dancing in his underpants has become an Internet sensation.

Assistant manager Nathan Swift, also called Swifty is seen watering the garden at The James Figg with a hose while strutting his stuff.

Dancing to Justin Timberlake's 'Can't Stop The Feeling' Nathan wiggles his bottom, shimmies around the garden and adds his own disco moves.

Nathan's dance moves had been viewed 10,000 times just three hours after the video posted on social networking site Facebook.

By Samantha McGregor

By the first 24 hours, it had reached 60 000 views. This week, the number of views had reached more than 260 000 and had been covered by press around the world, including the Daily Star, the Irish Examiner and News of Chicago. The video was also posted on an Australian TV network's Facebook page.

Nathan originally agreed to appear in the video to create a bit of publicity for Bank Holiday activities at the pub in Cornmarket, Thame.

Landlord Tom Goldsmith said: "What started out as just a bit of a laugh has become something really huge.

"Nathan only really did it to quash the rumours that it was him appearing in a similar video of a man dancing to the same song by a swimming pool, which also went viral.

"Now he's become an Internet star in his own right with thousands of comments, likes and shares, and is hoping he'll get to a million views. He even had a message from the original guy, Jeremy Morse, congratulating him on his performance."

On Australia Today TV's Facebook page, the post said: "This bloke is our spirit animal. What about those moves. We're mesmerised. LEGEND! Happy Hump Day folks!!"

In another post, from the USA, Christine Gallagher said "Loving this from Detroit Michigan!! I WISH I had his confidence! I showed my 15 year-old daughter and she so blasé as only a teenager can be, says: "oh yeah! LOVE that guy! His hips are ON FIRE!" High praise indeed. .... please keep dancing you make ME want to dance!!"

Nature reserve given boost of £41,000 grant for signs

A BICESTER nature reserve is set to be easier to navigate after it won a £41,000 grant.

In a joint application by Cherwell district and Bicester town councils, the cash was donated to Bure Park Nature Reserve by environmental body WREN.

The money will be used to buy 17 fingerpost style signs and five interpretation signs.

The idea is to make the nature reserve more accessible, guide visitors around it and encourage more people to visit.

Cllr Barry Wood, leader of Cherwell District Council, said: "This is a significant amount of funding which will facilitate vital improvements to one of Bicester's largest and best-loved public spaces.

"This nature reserve is the only one of its kind in Bicester. Not only does it enhance residents' journeys as they travel to connected destinations such as the primary school and local centre, it also plays a vital role in stimulating the area's biodiversity.

"The new interpretation signs will offer a guide to the flora, fauna and ecology of the nature reserve encouraging people to identify and appreciate the diverse species that call it home."

Residents were consulted earlier this year and a signage audit took place to look at areas that needed improved signs.

The Bicester Wayfinding scheme which is looking at all the town's signage and how it can be improved to make the town more navigable on foot and by bicycle.

Drivers fined for bridge use

SIX lorry drivers who breached weight restrictions by using weak bridges in Oxfordshire have been ordered to pay almost £4,000 in costs at Oxford Magistrates' Court.

Residents handed evidence of the HGV violations over the bridges in Charlbury and Newbridge to Oxfordshire County Council's trading standards team, who prosecuted the men.

Charlbury bridge has a 7.5-tonne limit and Newbridge is a grade II listed scheduled ancient monument, with an 18-tonne limit. All six pleaded guilty and were ordered to pay £3,065 in fines and costs, and a seventh case was withdrawn.

Trading Standards operations manager Jody Kerman said: "The majority of our cases now come from concerned members of the public.

"I think this shows the level of potential harm and disruption that can come from heavy goods vehicles using unsuitable roads.

"The vast majority of drivers understand and obey weight restriction areas but those who don't not only pose a danger but also gain a competitive advantage over those who follow the rules."

Adam Williams, 24, of Hampton, Oxfordshire drove a 32-tonne HGV over Charlbury bridge on November 3 2015. He was ordered to pay £780 in total.

Daron James Woodley, 46, of Curbridge, Oxfordshire, also drove a 32-tonne HGV over the same bridge the same day and was also ordered to pay £780.

Paul Andrew Keogh, 50, of Swindon, Wiltshire, drove a 44-tonne lorry over Charlbury bridge on December 9, 2015. He was ordered to pay £700.

Jaskarn Singh, 23, of Slough, Berkshire, drove a 32-tonne HGV over Charlbury bridge on December 10, 2015. He was ordered to pay £480.

Darren Graham Watts, 45, of Swindon, Wiltshire, drove a 32-tonne lorry over Charlbury bridge on October 30, 2015. He was ordered to pay £590.

Leonard Charles Wood, 56, of Newport, Wales, drove a 26-tonne HGV over the bridge at Newbridge on October 22, 2015. He was ordered to pay £535.

The trading standards team is urging HGV drivers to check the Oxfordshire Freight Gateway http://freightgateway.co.uk/oxfordshire/ to plan journeys.

Hero celebrated on new £5 note

OXFORDSHIRE-BORN Prime Minister and national icon Sir Winston Churchill will feature on new £5 bank notes coming into circulation in September.

The wartime statesman and former Blenheim Palace resident will be depicted on newly designed polymer notes.

The full design was unveiled on June 2, and features his portrait alongside a view of Westminster from the South Bank, his Nobel Prize medal and the words "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

The quote is taken from his House of Commons speech on May 13, 1940, with the pictured clock tower set to the time of the speech at 3pm.

Bank of England governor Mervyn King said at the unveiling announcement: "Our bank notes acknowledge the life and work of great Britons.

"Sir Winston Churchill was a truly great British leader, orator and writer. Above that, he remains a hero of the entire free world. His energy, courage, eloquence, wit and public service are an inspiration to us all."

Sir Winston, who was born at Blenheim Palace, Woodstock, and buried at nearby Bladon, has been featured on currency before, becoming the first non-royal to feature on a coin in 1965, when his portrait was on the crown, or five shilling piece.

The new notes will come into circulation on September 13 with the old cotton paper ones, which show social reformer Elizabeth Fry, going out of circulation by May 2017.

The Bank of England said their introduction would make the notes safer, cleaner and stronger, and also use various elements such as size and colours to assist people who were visually impaired.

The polymer notes are manufactured from a transparent plastic film, coated with an ink layer that enables it to carry the printed design features of bank notes, and includes clear 'windows' to protect against counterfeits.

A new polymer £10 note featuring novelist Jane Austen will be released next year, later with a new polymer £20 note introduced in 2020.

Bubbles could help to defeat cancer growth

RESEARCHERS are developing a bubbly drink to help radiotherapy and chemotherapy deliver a knock-out blow to beat cancers.

The researchers at Oxford University and Ulster University are creating a liquid with oxygen microbubbles to distribute extra oxygen to the site of the tumour.

As tumours grow, the blood vessels that deliver essential nutrients, including oxygen, become twisted and weak.

This means some tumours have learnt to adapt to harsher low-oxygen conditions making them more resistant to drugs, so chemotherapy fails to attack the heart of the tumour properly.

The scientists are investigating how oxygen bubbles get from the stomach to pancreatic tumours in the laboratory and working out whether this could be done by giving patients the equivalent of a bubbly drink.

Professor Eleanor Stride, a Cancer Research UK scientist at the University of Oxford, said: "We're especially excited about the potential this bubbly drink could have for hard to treat cancers like pancreatic cancer, where survival rates are low and better treatments are urgently needed."

Giant warehouses plan turned down

PLANS to build giant warehouses on the edge of three housing estates have been thrown out by council lors

Albion Land wanted to build 53,000sqm of warehouses up to 16 5m tall for light industry, gen eral industrial and warehouse and distribution use.

Cherwell District Council's plan ning officers had recommended the site off Howes Lane and Middleton Stoney Road, for approval despite a string of objections

These included inappropriate development in a residential area, the road infrastructure not cop ing with an increase in traffic and the proposal being contrary to the local plan

But after a long debate last Thurs day councillors went against the officers' advice and rejected the outline planning application.

Peter Frampton, for Albion Land, said the development would provide jobs and help fund road improvements in the area.

He told the planning meeting that the warehousing would not be "oppressive or overbearing", but acknowledged the "outlook" for residents would change However, he said he felt it would be "accept able"

Richard Mould opposed the appli cation and said the warehouses would be the same height as four to five double-decker buses stacked on top of each other

Cllr Catherine Fulljames, who spoke on behalf of all the county councillors representing Bicester and the surrounding villages, said they all opposed the plan

She said "Please refuse this application, please look at the big ger picture of Bicester and please do not damage Bicester any more."

Mrs Fulljames said large ware housing should be built at MOD Bicester.

Lynn Pratt said the site would trigger more vehicles and increased emissions

She pointed out Bicester had garden and healthy town status but said, "a development such as this does not fit in with this status"

The site adjoins the North West Bicester eco homes settlement and Albion Land owns part of the land needed for the realignment of Howes Lane.

As part of the eco development, a new road will be built opposite Howes Lane, a tunnel will be built under the railway embankment and a new junction created at Buck nell Road and Lords Lane.

A trigger of 900 homes and 40 per cent employment has been set by Oxfordshire County Council to say when work should start on the re aligned road.

Debbie Pickford said she wanted assurance that the cash was guar anteed for the rail tunnel before any building work took place

The meeting was told eco town developer A2Dominion was work ing with the Government's Homes and Communities Agency to deliver the re-aligned Howes Lane and tunnel.

The application was originally due to be decided in January but was deferred for officers to discuss reducing the amount of B8 ware housing and distribution.

SilverstoneClassic
29 30 31 JULY 2016

SERVING up a mouth-watering cocktail of classic car racing, classic rock music and great family entertainment, the annual Silverstone Classic is fast becoming one of the summer's top festivals – and it's not just for petrolheads!

Last year's three-day extravaganza attracted more than 160 000 visitors and, building on that success, July's event promises to be even bigger and better.

This year's live music line-up is topped by The Boomtown Rats, Reef and The Stranglers with several premier league tribute bands pumping out familiar hits from yesteryear to get the Friday and Saturday night parties rolling.

If anything, the daytime entertainment is even more upbeat, with unrivalled 50-car grids featuring the full spectrum of historic motor sport all competing on the legendary Silverstone Grand Prix Circuit.

Adding to the nostalgia, the infield areas are home to more than 10 000 privately-owned classic road cars hosted by more than 120 motor clubs. The result is acres and acres adorned with epic Ferraris, Aston Martins, Lamborghinis, Maseratis and other equally evocative machinery.

Closing date: Wednesday, July 20

And there's yet more for all ages to see and do. The family entertainment includes a vintage funfair, auction, adrenaline zone, shopping village, live car restoration, a car clinic hosted by TV presenter Mike Brewer, copious high flying air displays, interactive driving experiences ... there really is something for everyone!

What's more, along with the concerts and trackside grandstand seats, the vast majority of these wonderful activities and attractions are included in the admission fee. Adult ticket prices start from £42 and there are special rates for families, camping and weekend tickets. For full details log onto the official www.silverstoneclassic.com website.

If you're feeling lucky though, we have a weekend pass for two to give away as well as three pairs of Sunday tickets as runner up prizes. All you have to do is answer the following simple question.

CARE HOME
Open Day
CARING COMMUNITIES

Join the celebration

Friday 17th June

We are delighted to be again hosting National Care Home Open Day at Abingdon Court Care Home. It will be a fun filled day with a Caribbean theme. A talented steel drum band will play live for us on the day.

Care Home Open Day is all about showing people what excellent care homes are really about and how they can be at the centre of local communities, developing relationships across the generations.

Join us for a barbecue and punch. We hope to see you between 12pm - 4pm.

Let us show you we care.

Puzzles

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9×9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3×3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions", or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. The puzzle setter provides a partially completed grid, which for a well-posed puzzle has a unique solution.

COMEDY AT THE NORTHCOURT NEEDS YOU

The popular Out of Bounds comedy Acts used to be held monthly at the Abingdon Guildhall until the refurbishment of the Hall meant that they had to finish.

The NORTHCOURT entertainment venue, which also includes Music at the Northcourt (held at Abingdon United opposite the Boundary House), decided to try to continue the event so that Abingdon and area did not lose something that up to 90 people attended once a month.

The numbers have built up to 75 and a push is needed to get past the 90 mark and so it can continue in Abingdon.

If numbers don't pick up in the next two events the Comedy will have to sadly close, so if you did attend or know someone who did tell them where it is now, or if you haven't tried live comedy this is your chance to give it a go.

Don't bother to turn up if you haven't a sense of humour or don't like laughing as you would be disappointed.

So come along on Friday 17th June to see five great comics in a relaxed atmosphere, it starts at 8pm prompt at the NORTHCOURT.

Jack relishes Palace show

THIS year's Nocturne Live is expected to be one of the best series of shows ever

With live performances from the likes of The Corrs, The Royal Philharmonic Concert Orchestra, Jack Savoretti and Elton John, thousands of music lovers from across the country are expected to travel to Blenheim Palace Woodstock, from Thursday June 23 to Sunday June 26

And for singer-songwriter Jack Savoretti, who has admitted that he had 'fallen in love with Oxfordshire', a debut performance at one of the county s most prestigious venues was an offer to good to turn down.

The 32-year old will be performing at Blenheim Palace on Friday June 24, supporting The Corrs

"I haven't performed in Blenheim Palace but I did perform on the grounds for something called the 'Grand Prix Ball' last year" the musician told the Guardian.

"So to perform within the Palace is very exciting. It is just a spectacular venue.

By James Richings

"It has a great history with Winston Churchill being born there and when you look at it, you just think, 'wow

"It is just stunning."

Jack comes to festival to perform tracks from his latest album 'Written in Scars', which was released last April.

His latest collection of songs, to his surprise, has peaked at number seven in the UK album charts which is the highest position any of his albums have reached since his debut record, 'Between the Minds' was released nine years ago

And with the inspiration behind 'Written in Scars' focusing on dark events that have happened in Jack s life over the last few years, the Italian English musician believes the story he is telling through his songs will create a strong connection with his audience.

"I think the fans give you confidence " he said.

"When you show up to a place, you feel a lot better about what you do because it is just a reaction. The inspiration behind the album was about going through some tough experiences over the last couple of years and this was a way of dealing it with it.

"It was also a way to say thank you for everyone who stuck with me on this tough journey which hasn t been an easy ride "

"The album has been out for over a year but it has had this strange situation where it has come in and out of the charts, which has been a really nice surprise.

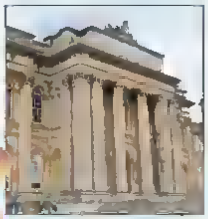

"I didn t think it would have that sort of weight so it has been a lovely surprise."

Jack has regularly performed in the county, and will perform at this year's Truck Festival at Hill Farm, Steventon, next month.

For more information about the festival, visit the website at www.nocturnelive.com.

Best of Bond music comes to Blenheim

WHEN author Ian Fleming created secret agent James Bond back in 1953, little did he know his character would go on to become one of the world's largest franchises

By James Richings

Over the last 63 years Fleming's 007 books have been successfully adapted for the cinema screen, with 26 Bond films being released to date, grossing an amazing $7 billion in that time.

Now you have the chance to enjoy the best of the music from the 007 films when 'The Music from Bond' arrives at this year's Nocturne Live on Saturday, June 25

Staged at Blenheim Palace, Woodstock, The Royal Philharmonic Concert Orchestra will be performing well-known Bond themes from films such as 'Goldfinger' 'From Russia with Love', 'Live & Let Die', 'License to Kill' and 'Casino Royal'

And no such occasion would be complete without the quintessential Bond girl, who, for this event, comes in the shape of Fiona Fullerton, who starred in the 007 film 'A View to a Kill'

The 59-year-old actress, who will be presenting the show believes it is one that an Bond fan can afford to miss

"This is an explosive performance of the entire Bond canon with me introducing each number with anecdotes and facts " the actress revealed to the Guardian.

"There will be two incredible performers singing the famous Bond themes and I'm very honoured to be hosting an event like this, and it doesn't get much better than to watch a performance by the RPO (The Royal Philharmonic Concert Orchestra) "

Fiona played agent Ola Ivanova in 'A View to a Kill' starring alongside Roger Moore Grace Jones and Christopher Walken.

She has fond memories of her appearance in the 14th Bond film, which was released in 1985.

Since then, her acting career has seen Fiona star in a number of different television shows such as 'A Hazard of Hearts 'Hold the Dream' and 'To Be the Best

She also participated in the popular TV show 'Strictly Come Dancing' back in 2013 finishing third.

Fiona said: "My experience on 'A View to a Kill' was brief but it was also hilarious, embarrassing, funny and most importantly memorable And even though I only worked with Roger, he was very charming and funny

She added, "If I could give advice to an aspiring and up-and-coming actress, I would say this: Develop a thick skin, be punctual, be tenacious and don't eat garlic the night before a love scene."

Fiona revealed that her favourite Bond movie was, in fact, 'Skyfall', because of its pared-down script and shocking ending'

Tickets for 'The Music from Bond' cost from £25 to £41.25 and the show starts at 4.30pm.

Play to highlight horrors of war

MARK Anderson's World War One play 'Furious Folly', is set to provide a spectacular piece of theatre when it arrives in Oxford this week.

By James Richings

Performed on the Magdalen College School field tomorrow night (Friday June 17) and on Saturday (June 18), it uses musical instruments, special effects and fireworks, as well as actors, to describe the horror of the First World War.

And with the two performances taking place late in the evening, one of the actors Graeme Leak believes it is a show not to be missed.

"There are myriad things about performing that I love and it is impossible for me to say which one is best," Graeme said.

"But I love the magic that happens when all the elements of a show come into harmony and forus during a performance, and you feel the transformative power working on everyone and everything (including me) at once.

"Also, I guess you could say that the fact that it is happening outdoors and that it is free means there is no excuse to not go."

An anti-war production, the play takes place in the centenary year of the Battle of the Somme and also focuses on the aftermath of the Great War.

The play looks at how wars could be avoided and also focuses on the lives of soldiers who had to leave their families behind.

Graeme believes that audience members will leave the show with a tear or two in their eye.

He said, "It has moments of extreme volume from fireworks and a big sound system and it feels a bit scary sometimes for the audience.

"This piece illuminates aspects of WWI rarely mentioned.

"It speaks about things usually left out of the official story – the protest movement, the role of women, the actions of trade unions, artists and deserters in response to the war and the horrors of mental illness inflicted by shell-shock and terror.

"These are important things for all people to become aware of, young and old."

Both performances are free and start at 10pm.

The play is suitable for children aged 12 and over.

FURIOUS FOLLY
Taking place in the centenary year of the battle of the Somme, Furious Folly creates an evocative, disorientating war-torn landscape from sound, light and pyrotechnics. Anderson and his team have made a unique show that is against the futility and madness of the Great War and challenges the inhumanity and senselessness of conflicts past and present.
An unmissable experience, this remarkable and moving free event forms part of 14-18 NOW, the UK wide arts programme to mark the First World War centenary.

Brilliant Honda well worth a look

• The Honda Civic 1.6 i-DTEC EX

THE Civic is powered by a 1.6-litre i-DTEC diesel engine that produces 120PS and 300Nm of torque, which made overtaking in many situations a doddle

As with most Honda engines it is refined and pretty much perfect.

0-62 is also around 10.5 sec and a max speed of 128mph is achievable.

Honda also wanted to make the Civic go as far as possible on the least amount of fuel and, on a good run, I managed a staggering figure of 65.8mpg. I was not really trying either, I was just driving normally.

On the road:

First off – great chassis along with a suspension set up that you know has taken Honda many hours of road testing to get just right.

The corners are a breeze and the bumps and potholes are dealt with easily with no dramas. Go into a corner a tad fiercer and you can really feel that chassis working to keep you firmly on the road.

By Anthony Yates

Design and Interior:

Honda have carefully crafted the new Civic to give it a dynamic presence on the road and have introduced some neat bits like the sculpted headlights and a very wizzy rear spoiler which I am told will all help with fuel economy and lower emissions.

I also like the look of the Civic with its sharp lines and bold edges.

Inside, it's all good with a quality interior.

Technology:

The Civic is packed with Honda Connect Technology like AM/FM, DAB and internet radio, Bluetooth connectivity, internet browsing, satellite navigation and a rear view parking camera.

Honda Connect is also compatible with Android 4.0.4, the world's most popular smartphone operating system, and features the familiar pinch, swipe and tap functionality – all accessed through a seven-inch display screen.

The Civic range benefits from Honda's unique centre fuel tank layout. The tank is located under the front seats allowing it to offer unparalleled interior space.

Safety:

This is where Honda really gets it right. Driver and passenger front/side airbags. Along with ERD, EBA and vehicle stability assist with hill start assist and city-brake active system.

Pay an extra £600 as an added option and you will get forward collision warning, traffic sign recognition, land departure warning, blind spot information and a host of extra safety features to keep you safe on the road. That is an option box well worth ticking.

To sum up The Civic is a brilliant machine and is a car I would recommend you take a look at.

Swindon crushed as Saints stay unbeaten

OXFORD Saints continued their unbeaten run with a 54-14 win over Swindon Storm – their fifth win of the season.

The Saints' nine touchdowns proved too much for an under-strength Swindon side who have now lost four in a row registering 500 yards on offence and holding the Storm to -5 yards.

The Saints, who play at Tilsley Park in Abingdon, have now beaten all the other teams in the league following previous victories against Bristol, Cornwall, Dorset and Torbay.

Star American quarterback Destin Maulding scored their first touchdown with an 11-yard run in, with the extra points added by kicker Sam Fielden.

Oxford then extended their lead when some strong first downs from Luke Fry and Antonio Athanasiou allowed veteran Ryan Kingshott to score his first touchdown of the season.

Shortly after running back James Walter, who ended on an average of 17.4 yards per play, rampaged through the Swindon defence for a 31-yard touchdown run, with Athanasiou adding the extras.

Storm player Toby Noakes then managed to outrun Oxford's kick-off unit into the end-zone for their first points of the game.

As the first quarter drew to a close more impressive running from Athanasiou was followed by another touchdown run from Walter, this time scoring from 28 yards.

Swindon struggled to make any gains with Oxford linebackers Sam Stancombe, Mat Smith and Spencer Duffy bringing down Swindon's ball carriers for negative gains.

With Oxford's offence back on the field, Walter and Kingshott both made 20-yard runs to set up offensive lineman Tyson Blackstock, who lost hold of the ball in the end zone before Stuart Crabbes dived to extend their score to 33-7.

Receiving Maulding's pass, Walter then broke through again for a big 67 yard touchdown run, aided by great blocking from receiver Ali Galbraith.

Another failed coverage job by Oxford kick-off unit saw Swindon's Lee Hobbis return the ball all the way into the Saints end zone for a score.

After more strong running Maulding threw a 17 yard touchdown pass into the corner of the end-zone which was hauled in up high by Ali Galbraith.

Now in the third quarter Athanasiou picked up 32 yards and Kingshott 19 as full back Conor Day ran up the middle into the end zone for his first career touchdown.

Oxford now sit at the top of the conference standings and have two weeks off before they host Bristol Apache on July 3 at Tilsley Park.

Plato is aiming for more strong results

BRITISH Touring Car Championship (BTCC) racer Jason Plato will be hoping his team's return to form continues when they take to the track in Croft this weekend.

Last time out the Oxford-born Team BMK driver picked up three podium finishes at Oulton Park in the Subaru Levorg.

The hugely welcomed results came after the team had been forced to pull out of the meeting at Thruxton on May 8 with safety concerns.

Prior to that, his only points had come from a 13th place finish in race two at the opening weekend's meeting at Brands Hatch.

Sunday's races start at 12.02pm, 2.39pm and 5.38pm.

It has also been announced that the BTCC calendar will remain the same for a sixth successive season in 2017.

Brands Hatch again bookends the season with racing on April 2 and October 1, with the same order of meetings at Donington Park, Thruxton, Oulton Park, Croft, Snetterton, Knockhill, Rockingham and Silverstone in between.

Oxford foursome meet Henman at tournament

IT'S not every day you get to meet your sporting idol, but that is exactly what happened to four members of David Lloyd Oxford's tennis club after they reached the national finals of the inaugural Jaguar Championships.

Chris Donnellan, Kathryn Hampshire, Sam Satish and Rose Simpson faced stiff competition from seven other teams at David Lloyd's Raynes Park facility in London on Sunday, watched on by former British number one Tim Henman.

The Jaguar Championships saw 1,200 players from up and down the country battle it out for a spot in Sunday's finals, where a prize of Wimbledon quarter-finals tickets were up for grabs.

By Katie Falkingham

And while Oxford were not victorious on the day, 37-year-old Donnellan admitted the opportunity to meet a British hero capped off a thrilling day in South London.

"Coming from Ireland, we don't have too many top players so Tim would have been the closest," said Donnellan, a construction site manager.

"I think he was very unfortunate not to win a Grand Slam as he was a fantastic player.

"He was a great guy, very friendly, gave us a couple of tips and he's an all round nice guy and a great ambassador for the game."

David Lloyd launched The Jaguar Championships, an inaugural mixed-doubles event which will now feature as part of it 2016 Total Tennis calendar.

Jaguar ambassador Henman was the star attraction at the event as he watched all the action get underway.

And after taking to the umpire's chair to oversee the day's finals, the 41-year-old admits he was impressed with the talent on show.

"For me, one of the most important things about the Jaguar Championships is the participation, getting more and more people into the game," he said.

"I've been very impressed with what I've seen."

New managers

FOOTBALL. Didcot Town have confirmed Chris Hurley and Ieuan Morgan as the reserve and under 18 managers.

Hurley comes with vast experience having previously had managerial roles at Witney Town, Clanfield 85 and Bicester Town.

Also joining the coaching setup are Adam Bradley and Jeff Simmonds, both of whom have worked with Hurley before.

And Morgan, who also works as a coach at The Arsenal Soccer Schools, also joins Didcot having recently been involved in the Carterton youth setup.

Pitch delay

FOOTBALL. Oxford City have confirmed they will not be able to get their plans for a 3G pitch in place for the coming season.

City had been looking to replace their pitch at Marsh Lane over the summer, but construction changes mean it wouldn't be ready in time for an inspection deadline next month.

It comes after defender Freddie Grant was signed by City for next season, having been released by Oxford United.

Rugby fixtures

RUGBY. The fixture list for the National League 2 South have been released.

Henley Hawks will travel to play Redruth in their first match of the new season on September 3, while Chinnor will host London Irish WG.

The two Oxfordshire sides then face each other in their second match, with Henley hosting.

And the season ends on April 29 with both teams playing the reverse fixtures of their opening day games.

New name for Banbury's Spencer Stadium

BANBURY United's Spencer Stadium has been renamed as part of a three year sponsorship deal worth an annual five-figure sum to the club.

The ground will now be known as The Banbury Plant Hire Community Stadium, following discussions with the company over the last six months.

Signage will be placed around the ground as well as on all the club's literature, website, and social media.

Banbury United chairman Ronnie Johnson said: "This is a fabulous, eye-catching sponsorship for both parties, so we're very grateful to everyone at Banbury Plant Hire for making it happen.

"We can assure fans that we'll be looking at some way to incorporating our Spencer roots into an area of the stadium, so that we always remember the history of our great club."

Nathan Matthews director of Banbury Plant Hire, added: "We've had pitch advertising with the club for a number of years but now the club is fan owned we wanted to support it in a much bigger way.

"We've signed a deal for the next three years which shows the fans we're fully committed to them.

"Hopefully we'll be involved beyond the initial term, because from our perspective the club is going places."

Oxford RL mauled by Bears

OXFORD RL weren't able to build upon last weekend's victory over Hemel Stags as they lost 48-10 away to the Coventry Bears on Saturday.

The Bears produced a dominant display, condemning Oxford to their 10th defeat in 11 games so far this season.

James Geurtjens, Jack Morrison, Joel James, Eddie Medforth and Jay Lobwein helped the Bears establish an early lead, which Oxford would not be able to catch.

The visitors did manage to get some points on the board as Danny Allan found Aaron Nicholson for a try.

Just before the end of the first half Oxford came close again as Allan weaved his way around the defence before Jordan Siddons was held up.

But the Bears immediately fought back to touch down through Medforth.

Coventry continued to pile on the scores in the second half, with Allan able to restore a bit of pride in the closing stages as he went over although there was still time for Chris Bartlett to get one more try for the Bears.

The result leaves Oxford 13th out of 15 in the Kingstone Press League 1 standings, with just the two points from last week's win against Hemel.

It is Hemel and South Wales Scorpions who are the only two sides below Oxford in the table, with both also having two points but having conceded more often in their matches.

Oxford's next game is at home to York City Knights on Saturday afternoon.

Three more signings for Stars

OXFORD City Stars have continued their preparations for the new season by signing three defensive players in the past week.

Joonas Lumatainen and Mark Duffy are new additions to the squad, while Jake Florey put pen to paper and re-signed for another year.

Lumatainen joins from Finnish outfit Kalkis-Pirkan Kiekko although he has previously played in the UK Elite League for both the Dundee Stars and Cardiff Devils.

The 24-year-old averaged over a point a game last season, and comes in the city as he prepares to study at Oxford University.

He said: "I feel extremely fortunate that the Oxford City Stars wanted to sign me for the upcoming season and we could get everything sorted out."

Meanwhile 28-year-old netminder Duffy has also been brought in from Bracknell Hornets having spent the last two seasons in Berkshire.

He said: "I expect to be in with a chance to win every game against any team Oxford plays and I'm looking forward to finishing the season with a long play off run too."

And 21 year old Florey has joined his older brother Josh in committing to the Stars for another season.

He has already played 85 times for Oxford, and has been showing his potential over the last year.

He said: "I'm looking forward to the season starting and hopefully we can keep up the good performances and beat some of the top teams again."

Trophy plans divide club and supporters

• Around 34,000 fans watched the U's in the final of the Johnstone's Paint Trophy in April (picture by Steve Daniels)

By Dominic Thomas

OXFORD United have cautiously agreed to trialling a new structure to the EFL Trophy – previously known as the Johnstone's Paint Trophy – at a league meeting last week.

The club agreed to alter the format of the new competition, which will introduce a restructuring into four-team groups, and the inclusion of 16 Premier League B-teams.

In a statement the club said its support for the proposals was strictly for one season only, "having taken the wider deep concerns for the future of the competition into consideration", and says it is strongly opposed to the introduction of the B teams.

The club's chairman Darryl Eales voted against the proposals but was overruled by the decision of the board, which was to 'support the league's appeal to explore ways to secure the cup's future"

There has been widespread concern over the future of the competition, with clubs struggling to break even, but all clubs have agreed to the new proposals.

In a statement Oxford United, who reached the final of last year's competition, said, "After taking 34,000 fans to Wembley for the final this year the club is a big supporter of the competition and greatly appreciates its value."

Along with the new proposals, the prize money for the trophy, which as yet to find a sponsor, will be doubled from next year.

The club also agreed to a number of new measures to encourage diversity and recommendations over governance agreeing to hold at least two fans forums with a representative group of the club's supporters a year.

However supporters' trust OxVox voiced its disapproval of the plans on its website.

It said "The trust is very disappointed to hear of the proposal passed to create a new format.

"The likelihood must be that the strongest of [the Premier League clubs] will prevail, and the prospect of reaching a Wembley final for League 1 and 2 clubs will recede."

The Trust also said it had spoken to Eales and stated, "He has given an undertaking to OxVox, which he is happy for us to make public, that in future the club will fully consult the trust prior to any similar situation requiring the club to express a view."
